KS2/KS3 – The importance of imagery on expeditions

Using the two images below, ask students to work in pairs to discuss what they think is happening and why. You could use the 5 W's as an approach. Prompt them to think about the difference between the clothing, the people and the ship. Encourage them to use key terms associated with the power of imagery. How does it make them feel? Why might these images play such an important role in communicating what it is like to be on an expedition in the Antarctic.
